The Best of Times

The strength of musical theater has always been rooted in its power to harness our imagination and creativity. As we grow older and mature with age, it becomes more and more difficult to hold onto that sense of play that we embraced so easily when we were young; and we begin to lose our ability to imagine and create as we grow older. This is one of the reasons theater youth programs can so richly entertain and educate us; and it's why our kids can always look back at their time with us and remember it as "The Best of Times."
